

Teacher

Tom Bozigian is back by popular demand. Born in Los Angeles, he traveled to Armenia to attend a choreography school and traveled into the interior to research village dances. He has an extensive repertoire of Armenian dances, and also teaches Russian character, Lebanese and Greek dances. In addition, he is an accomplished percussionist specializing in music of the Near East, the Caucasus and the Balkans. We are happy to have Tom with us again this year. (Note: no video-taping, please – Tom will have DVDs for sale.)

Dave Vinski began dancing as a boy, which led to a scholarship with the Duquesne University Tamburitzens and a life of music and dance. He has taught at many folk dance camps and been a guest choreographer for a number of groups, including the Tamburitzens and the Pittsburgh International Folk Theater. He was artistic director of the Pittsburgh Folk Festival, as well as formerly leader of our own folk dance group, and we are happy to have him with us still.

Accommodations

We are using the large, two-bedroom cabins, which have bathroom with shower, living room with couch that can be opened into a bed, kitchenette with sink and refrigerator (no stove). Bedrooms have a double bed, and bunk beds if needed. No linens, dishes, etc. are provided.

What to Bring

Warm bedding (sleeping bag or linen and blankets for a double bed or bunk), towels, toiletries, a flashlight, warm sweater or jacket (we'll be dancing in the barn) and rain gear. Contributions of wine and desserts to share for the Saturday night party will be greatly appreciated.
